Spotlight on Great Programs

Three MHS programs have garnered positive media attention this past week for students' outstanding efforts.

The MHS Building Trades class was recognized as they cut the ribbon for the completion of their locker room expansion project. The students completed masonry, carpentry, electrical, plumbing, and heating/cooling work alongside industry professionals. Several students in the program have also gone onto internships or employment through connections made in the class.

MHS National Honor Society and FOR Club students combined efforts to honor Kiersten Woodward through Kier's Art Fest last week. Woodward passed as the result of a car accident in December prior to her own National Honor Society induction. See the Fox59 story on Kier's Art Fest.

MHS was also the site for a five-team Unified Baseball tournament on

Students Show Patriotism

Fourth grade students across the district recently took part in a flag education test and patriotic essay contest sponsored by America Legion Post 103. Male and female contest winners were chosen at each school.

Jack Hathaway, a student in Mrs. Anderson's class at Northwood, won the essay contest for Post 103 and also won for the American Legion 7th District Level out of 3,600 total essays.

- Neil Armstrong Winners: Memphis Harris, Mariah Person
- Northwood Winners: Grace Anderson, Jack Hathaway
- North Madison Winners: Blake Wilbur, Teagan Gray
- Waverly Winners: Marley Van Wanzeele, Eli Kovacic
