New Career Center Opened

The former Moorsville Schools transportation center has begun a new life as Moorsville's Career Center for high school students and adults looking for continuing education courses.

The Moorsville Career Center, at 173 Indianapolis Road, will host Ivy Tech Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) and Welding classes beginning next week.

"This Career Center creates great opportunities for our residents to further their training for in-demand careers," said Superintendent Randy Taylor. "We're proud to be able to repurpose this facility for ongoing career training. We're also thankful to the Moorsville Redevelopment Commission, the Moorsville Town Council, and Ivy Tech for their partnership and support to create this great facility."

The EMT training course will be held Aug. 22 through Dec. 14 on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Welding courses this semester will include Tungsten Arc Welding on Wednesday evenings from 5:00-8:50p.m. Aug. 21 through Oct. 12 and Metal Arc Welding Wednesday evenings from 5:00-8:50p.m. from Oct. 23 through Dec. 17. Learn about registering at IvyTech.edu.

Both courses could be free with the state's Next Level Jobs grant for students who qualify. The Next Level Jobs program helps Indiana residents who are U.S. citizens with at least a high school diploma fill positions in high-demand areas. Learn more at NextLevelJobs.org.
